

Ornamental Treasures

Original patterns for packaging, celebrations and everyday objects.

A gift before the gift.

I wanted the wrapping to feel as thoughtful as what is inside. These designs began with dots and brush experiments in Procreate, then grew into patterned boxes, paper and small keepsakes.

This self-directed collection explores bold color for weddings and celebrations. The styling draws on the joy of colorful Indian and Mexican wedding palettes, while the motifs remain my own.

Diya, lantern and mandala motifs create a festive field of color.

The details carry the story.

A quiet place for the name.

Cream bands give the brand room to breathe against the intricate print. Plum ribbon ties the family together.

A coordinated finish.

A tag, envelope or tissue layer carries the color into the moment of opening.
